December 2014 Free Range Kids

Another year has all but finished. Looking back and reflecting upon everything – what a big year we have had.

Over the next few weeks as places become available we will be looking at transitioning children into their new rooms to settle them before they start full time in this room next year. The staff will chat to you in the afternoon about your child's day and how they went with the transition. If you have any concerns at all or your child is not coping with the transition please let us know ASAP so we can work on different strategies of transitioning for them. Each child is different; working with us will help make a smooth transition for you and your child.

Room Selections for 2015
